Professional Summary

Saying I like manual labor is an understatement because it's something that gives me a lot more time to breathe while developing myself physically. I'm adapt in stations such as lifting, stoking, classifying shelves for customers, inventory. But I'll be honest and inform you that the cashier position ISN'T my forte. However, I always do my best everywhere else.

Something else that's even more enlightening about me is my admiration for literature. Not only to do I love and respect the world of storytelling, but I also live and breathe it every day. Writing is my biggest passion, dream and goal. A career as an author, selling my books, sharing my imagination and inner prowess with the world is what years of diligent work will amount to.
